About Me

With over 18 years of experience in business and finance and more than 12 years in film production, I specialize in helping productions maximize their resources and take full advantage of everything the State of Utah has to offer. Raised by a financial advisor, I developed a strong foundation in fiscal management from an early age and began my finance career at 18. After studying business with an emphasis in finance, I transitioned into the film industry, where I've combined financial strategy with hands-on production experience to streamline budgets, optimize local incentives, and ensure smooth, cost-efficient operations. My work spans both independent and studio productions, and I take pride in helping filmmakers make the most of Utah's talent base, crew network, and production resources.
